Cambrian Report Awaits Action By Residents

Edward P. Shaw presented the third and last section of his report on annexation—a detailed breakdown of the tax situation—to a capacity audience of Cambrian Park Improvement Association members Tuesday night at Union School Auditorium. Shaw's talk was followed by ten minute outline of advantages of annexation to particular cities—by Jim Ersted for remaining unincorporated in the county, by Charles MeDevitt, favoring annexation to Los Gatos, and by Lee Diel, who urged annexation to the city of San Jose.

A short period of open discussion with questions directed to spokesmen centered on the cost and other problems connected with the area's drainage problem.

Shaw's estimated tax figures, computed on Santa Clara County assessed valuations, indicated an approximate $1.00 increase in home owners present monthly tax payments, if they annexed to Los Gatos, and approximately 16 cents monthly increase if they elected to join San Jose. Tax rates would depend on the value of the home, in what school district it was located, and whether or not the taxpayer was a veteran, Shaw said.

Shaw said the maximum tax increase for non-veteran residents of Cambrian Park would total approximately $2.14 a month more, for a home valued at $11,500 if the area annexed to Los Gatos. The minimum tax increase from present monthly payments if the present governmental status of the area were to change, would occur for veteran taxpayers. San Jose annexation would bring an approximate 16 cents a month increase, he said.

Jim Ersted, addressing the gathering in favor of remaining in the county said that annexation is not inevitable, that needed improvement for the area could be provided by the county at lower rates because there would be no city officials to be paid. Aside from giving up their rural living, annexation to a larger city would mean putting up petty regulations with no voice in their administration, he said. Ersted said the best government was the least government.

McDevitt stressed annexation to Los Gatos, " a Cadillac among residential areas" to increase property values, and to thwart annexations of San Jose which he thought would eventually throttle the area. McDevitt said that since 1947, San Jose has completed 59 annexations of which nine during the past year were in the Willow Glen area which adjoins Cambrian Park.

Diel said Cambrian Park should annex to San Jose, to take advantage of the greater bargaining power of the larger, better organized city to entice industry to the area which in turn would benefit all residents.

A solid argument for encouraging choice industrial location, Diel said, is the availability of bedroom area for workers. Cambrian Park won't be swallowed up by San Jose, he said; the city has a planned economy-industrial development on the east side of the valley on marginal land; and a well developed living area on the west.

Diel said he had prepared a list of advantages of annexation to San Jose which he would make available to interested residents at a meeting to be held Monday night at 8 p. m. in the John Parker School on Union avenue.

Questions from the floor following the talks centered around the drainage problem of the area, and how best it could be solved.

CPIA president Don Findlay, said flood conditions exist even after a slight rainfall as water from Blossom Hill slope head for the bay and cause periodic floods on Branham Lane, Wyrick, Charmaran, Cole Drive and the Hacienda Garden area.

Diel said adequate piping to care for the situation is planned by the San Jose Public Works department.

Home Economics Club To Meet At Mrs. Walsh's

Orchard City Grange Home Economics Club will meet on Lincoln's birthday tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. in the home of Judge and Mrs. Martin S. Walsh, 65 Budd avenue for a social evening hostessed by Mr. Wslsh and Mrs. A. J. Emery.

Council Sets Pattern For Improving Roads

The city council was on record by inference Monday as being in favor of widening both Hamilton avenue and portions of Winchester Road to four lanes by the time the new state freeway is begun, earmarking gas tax funds for that purpose. The council also tentatively agreed Monday to a work program submitted by City Engineer Mark Thomas calling for street repairs and new construction on secondary roads under three priority groupings.

Widening of Hamilton avenue from Winchester to the western terminal of the freeway interchange is an obligation to which the city is now committed, it was pointed out by Mayor Richard Morton. As the work is not likely to start for four years or so this work will not have to start immediately. Winchester Road has been considered by the council as a street of major importance which eventually must be widened to four traffic lanes. As Santa Clara County now plans to widen Winchester Road from the Campbell city limits to Stevens Creek Road, the city engineer and Mayor Morton, serving also as traffic engineer, will contact the county officials to ascertain if some plan may be devised so the work may be done simultaneously, especially that from Campbell avenue to the north city limits joining the County work project. Joseph Gomes suggested alternating the construction projects to the limit of available moneys. No action is to be taken until the committee is ready to report.

Engineer Thomas submitted a map showing where he felt repair on roads should be made and where new construction should be started on a priority basis. Cost of first priority work would be $3400, second priority streets $750 and third priority to cost $3000 or a total of $7000. Bids on a unit basis and for over-all project were authorized subject to approval of Public Works Superintendent LeRoy Black and Councilman J. M. Dahl, commissioner of streets.

Councilman Gomes will submit a final report on license fees to be charged an animal clinic which may necessitate changing the business license ordinance.

Representatives of two fire truck manufacturing firms submitted tentative proposals which were referred to Fire Chief Jack Scott for study. They were R. W. Owsley representing Food Machinery Co. of San Jose and Max Dallas representing Van Pelt Company of Oakdale. A meeting is to be held this afternoon to go over plans.

The Planning Commission recommended that all streets in the A. G. Warning subdivision be sixty feet in width, so the proposition for annexation was deferred indefinitely until a new request is presented which would designate adequate street widths and rights of way and whether or not the Dahleen property is to be included in the proposed annexation.

Black reported he had replaced 683 damaged traffic buttons and that he had found a pipe under the driveway approach to the Co-op dryer, that he had added five inches to each end to take care of drainage. Neighbors he said had reported trays having been washed so that run-off water attracted flies. This is to be investigated by Councilman Gomes. Black's proposal to buy a second hand dump truck for $350 was approved.

Mayor Morton reported that a study of past minutes indicate three fourths of council meetings adjourn before 10 p. m. and lately most meetings are over by around 9:30. The city attorney is to prepare for council approval, an amendment to the administration ordinance to permit meetings every other Monday. Under this arrangement, an adjourned meeting can be called by the council if matters on the agenda are not completed within a reasonable hour.

City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan then reported receipt of a warrant of $913.14 covering court fines and forfeitures and building inspection fees.

4H CLUB MEET

The Cambrian 4 H Club will meet in the Cambrian School Cafetorium tonight at 7:30 p. m.

Two color films will be shown, "Forming an Egg", a Kansas State College film, and "A Chick Life Begins", obtained at Cornell University.

An invitation is cordially extended to the general public

Nomination Forms Available Monday For City Offices

One week remains to register for the city election for those who have moved here since the last registration period. If from within the county, a 30 day residence is required in Campbell, but from out of the county a 90 day residence is required and one year if from out of the state.

Any one having voted in Campbell at the last election need not register again, it was ponited out by Dorothy Trevethan, city clerk.

Next Monday candidates for city councilmen, city clerk and city treasurer, may take out nomination papers, which must be filed by the 4th of March.

Williams Road Not To Extend Across Freeway

Because residents objected to an extension of Williams Road across the proposed new Route 5 freeway, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously Monday to change the master road plan so as to cut out the Williams road crossing. The previously adopted State freeway plan neglected to include a crossing there so the county master plan would have to conform with the State plan, it was pointed out by Supervisor Joseph McKinnon, in whose district the property is located. Besides, the residents didn't want their street crossing the freeway in that it would then become a major access road and become a traffic hazard.

Officials To Meet To Map Strategy For Street Survey

Preliminary steps for the Planning Commission's traffic survey within the city limits, will be taken when commissioners Homer H. Hyde, Hollis M. Logue, and Guy Farley meet with a citizens committee, early next week, it was brought out at the last meeting of the City Planning Commission February 4.

The appointed committee of three commissioners will meet with representatives of various civic, and social groups at the Fire House to work out details of the survey, plan chairman John M. Chargin indicated at the last meeting of the Planning commission.

The survey is intended to give accurate statistical data on origin and destination of foot and vehicular traffic within the city. Study will serve as a basis for future recommendations to the city council concerning street improvement, parking and other vehicular facilities, safeguards for pedestrian safety and other uses for which the information is necessary.

At earlier meetings, Nestor Barrett, planning consultant, said the survey would require a minimum of 16 daylight hours to complete with aid of 150 students, 55 adults, local police and auxiliary, and the help of civic organizations to sort, compile, and help interpret the information so obtained.

Students and faculty of Campbell Union High School have also indicated willingness to participate in the city-wide survey.

Planning commissioners, and the city council have expressed appreciation of the 100 per cent support offered the city in the compilation of this data.

COLORFUL MARCHING UNITS ADD TO PAGEANTRY OF SETTLERS' DAY FETE

A flood of entries for Campbell's Old Settlers' Day parade, February 22, promise to make this 62nd annual celebration one of the best in local history, Ira H. Grim, parade chairman said today. Requests for participation in the parade have been received from all parts of the state, and include some of the better-known parade attractions.

Entrys received, Grim said, range from the glittering splendor of mounted organizations, to an outstanding novelty entrant "Lock Kin On", oriental attired, chinese pipe playing street dancing entertainer.

Spectators expected to line the Campbell avenue, parade route in this second oldest celebration in the state will be able to see the highly touted "Lulu The Mule", a Lilliputian Shetland mule, one of the first in this part of the country owned and entered by Richard Ironberg, Route 3, Bob 151, San Jose. The tiny animal, an offspring of a burro and a Shetland mare, already halter broken will eventually serve as a saddle mount for Lani, Ironberg's three year old daughter.

Riding entries received this week, Grim said include the well-known Guadalupe Red Shirt Riders from Los Gatos, the Boots and Jeans Club, a mixed group from Oakland, famous for their authentic mounted square dances, the Santa Clara County Horsemen's riding Association, the Mayfair Riders, and the "Saddlebags" all ladies, from Menlo Park.

M. Franco Post drum and bugle corps from San Jose, Pat Mauldin's Sparklers from Sunnyvale; the Southern Pacific Band from San Francisco, Memory Post, and American Legion Band from San Jose.

FORWARD ON LIBERTY'S TEAM

Scouting started back in 1927 here in Campbell when Troop 28 was chartered under sponsorship of the Congregational Church. This is Boy Scout Week. It is the 44th anniversary of the organization.

A principal activity will be in paying tribute to volunteer adult leaders of the 89,000 units for their contribution toward better boyhood. Today more than 860,000 scouters take time from their own careers to give service to scouting so as to help their communities do a better job in building citizens.

It was interesting to note in the meeting at one of the service clubs in Campbell this week that of the fifty or more members present, eighty per cent or more indicated that they had at one time or another been a boy scout or a scout leader. Since the scout troop was first started in Campbell, several thousand boys have proudly worn the uniforms here. The boy scout activity is indeed an important element in sound community living.

SPOTLIGHT ON THE SANTA CLARA VALLEY

The industrial development of Santa Clara County has become quite active and fortunately these are firms not dependent on war production activities.

Dole Pineapple is erecting a three-quarter million dollar warehouse and office in San Jose to be staffed by 150 more employes within the next year. Ford Motor Company will complete its one hundred million dollar plant to be ready in four years, about fifty million dollars of this being spent in 1954.

There are 28 new industrial plants starting with a total capital investment of $110,130,000 to provide employment for more than 5000 people.

Some existing facilities too are spending more than ten million dollars in an expansion program.

No matter where you live in the Santa Clara Valley, your home here is in a more favorable position economically than ever before.

CARRIERS FOR CARRIERS

One of the improvements planned for the post-offices is to equip postmen with two-wheel carriers for their mail similar to those used for carting clubs on the golf courses. When that comes about, likely as not more postmen will play golf on their days off instead of going for a long walk.

THE LONE EAGLE SPEAKS

Charles Lindbergh, the lone eagle, is gradually easing up on his self-exile from the news. His story of the flight to Paris in 1927 and the sale of the story to the movies indicates the change. Recently he made a talk in New York, a brief but sensibe talk. He warned that the survival of this country will ultimately rest on its character development rather than on its material success. He said that it was not the outer grandeur of the Roman, but the inner simplicity of the Christian that has lived on through the ages.

THE AMERICAN WAY

The Campbell Gambol

THOSE POLOROID cameras not only add to the efficiency and speed of picture production for newspaper use but they also offer proof of social calls having been made . . . take the case of the Fred H. Madsens at 71 Hardy Avenue for instance who had been away over the weekend and who let newspapers and milk bottles accumulate like so many of us do . . . Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coffee of Gonzales called Sunday and found no one at home so Charlie, who publishes the weekly newspaper at Gonzales, piled up the papers and the bottles by the door, told his wife to step forward and ring the doorbell, then he whipped out his faithful poloroid like Bill Boyd would whip a six-shooter from his holster and shot the works . . . in a couple of minutes, the picture came out developed and showing papers, bottles, house number and the doorbell ringing . . Charlie then wrote on the back that they were sorry to have missed the Hardy's, and then shoved the picture under the door as the proof positive they had been there.

THE SUN quickly wipes away the white frost from roof-tops on these mornings and allows little if any damage to any of our crops while down in Los Angeles the temperature remains in the high eighties . . . last Sunday afternoon at the Burbank airpor,t the thermometer I saw read 91 degrees and men were shuffling about in shirt sleeves, then two hours later, on arriving at the San Francisco airport, the brisk, fresh air was more invigorating and I saw men doing the same kind of work as at the Los Angeles airport, only they were more brisk and alert.

CONVENTIONS are interesting, and newspaper publishers had a record attendance Friday and Saturday at theirs in the Ambassador hotel . . . for a while on Friday night, it seemed that Hollywood was taking over as the industry sent some of their top performers to appear in person before our audience numbering 618 in the banquet room . . . Jeff Chandler was master of ceremonies with Joel McCrea, Jeannette MacDonald, Dick Contino and Ray Bolger giving all they had . . . also with us were Goveronor Goodwin Knight, Lt.-Gov. Harold J. Powers, Secretary of State Frank Jordan, Controller Robert Kirkwood and United States Senator Thomas Kuchel and others . . . Saturday noon over a ramp in the dining room, a fashion show featuring bathing attire from 1880 to 1954 was a feature—all with models . . . inside the conference rooms, there was much going on of interest to newspaper publishing and this being something like twenty-two of these state conventions this writer has attended, something new is always to be learned from them . . . lobby talk was that a lot of people around Los Angeles are interested in coming north both as homemakers and with capital to set up industry and that they focus their sights mainly on Santa Clara, Santa Cruz and Monterey counties . . . in other words, as someone down there said, it will be easier from now on for us to interest financially responsible people in Southern California in industrial and home sites here than ever before . . . the tourist capital is shifting northward.

Profile of The Week

This column attempts to acquaint Campbell residents with the background of most of its leading citizens, to make for a greater interest in the activities of the Campbell area.

Pictures from the files of the Campbell Press will be drawn, by lot, for the first of the articles. When this supply is exhausted, pictures of newer residents will be taken, to run in conjunction with stories.

In her senior year she was editor of the High School Annual. Continuing her schooling she enrolled at San Jose State College and four years later graduated with distinction.

She earned an advanced degree at San Jose in 1951. In the meantime she had met and married Robert Sutter, a graduate of Miami University, who was studying for his master's degree at San Jose State. Mr. Sutter now teaches at Moreland School.

Mrs. Sutter taught at the M. R. Trace school in San Jose before coming back to the Campbell area to teach. In 1951 and 1952 she was elected president of the San Jose Teachers' Association.

The Sutters have a son, Edward, a fourth grader at Willow Glen in San Jose, and a daughter, Karen, a seventh grader at Edwin Markham Junior High School.

They live at 1234 Fairview Avenue in San Jose.

MACY'S EXPECTS MILLION DOLLAR ANNUAL REVENUE

Jack Straus, president of R. H. Macy & Co. said this week the new store to be erected on Stevens Creek Road, three miles north of Campbell is expected to do $10,000,000 volume of business annually.

Straus said the store eventually would do a sixteen million dollar volume. The estimate is based on $50 worth of annual business being done for each square foot in the store.

I sent a recent issue of the Campbell Press to my daughter, Myra Jean, who after graduating from Campbell High last June enlisted in the WAC and is now stationed at the Brooke Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

A letter from her today includes the following comment, I quote "I got the Campbell Press and it was so newsy, I knew so many people in it. Then I used the front page to stuff my Pot Hat to make it keep its form. I used the other pages to clean the windows and mirror in the hall which was my detail last week."

A Lecture on Christian Science Entitled Christian Science: The Coincidence of Pure Science and Pure Religion by George Nay, C.S. of Chicago, Illinois

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts

Mr. George Nay, C. S. of Chicago, Ill., delivered a lecture in First Church of Christ, Scientist, Los Gatos, Tuesday evening, February 9, at 8 o'clock. He was introduced by Mr. Raymond J. Stiles, who said:

"Friends: The members of this church welcomes you. The lecture which is to be delivered this evening is entitled "Christian Science: The Coincidence of Pure Science and Pure Religion."

Our speaker Mr. George Nay, of Chicago, Illinois, is a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

It gives me great pleasure to present Mr. Nay.

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

During the next hour we are going to consider scientific and religious research, Truth, matter, and it may be helpful to those who are attending a Christian Science lecture for the first time to say a few words about these terms.

By scientific research we mean, of course, the endeavor of the physical sciences to find the explanation of the physical universe, its origin, laws, and phenomena. By religious research we mean the search for a better understanding of God, His law, and His relation to man and the universe.

Another term we shall use is Truth. Truth is that which is, that which has real or eternal existence When written with a capital T, Truth means to Christian Scientists the source or creator of all that really exists. God is called Truth in the Bible. "A God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he," we read in Deuteronomy (32:4), and John writes, "And it is the Spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth" (I John 5:6). Christian Science accepts these Scriptural definitions of God as Truth or Spirit, having just and right power and infinite intelligence, "the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning" (James 1:17). Since the power of Truth is spiritual and moral, and not material, Truth should be understood as the opposite of matter, and matter, of course, as the suppositious opposite of Truth, for Truth can have no real opposite.

Not so very long ago a title like ours for tonight would have caused quite a little flurry among both scientists and religionists, for they have maintained, and to a lesser extent they still maintain, that their respective fields are distinct from each other. But are they?

Pure Science and Pure Religion Are of God

What is pure science? Science without error or the science of pure truth. Since Truth is God, pure science is divine Science. It is not man-made; it is from God and so must be spiritual. Pure religion is religion without error, or the religion of Truth called God. It is therefore not man-made but is from God, and is not a matter for unthinking acceptance but for liberating spiritual understanding. Since matter no longer appears in either, both are metaphysical. It is at this point that science and religion, having attained purity through complete freedom from human supposition, coincide. This point of coincidence is Christian Science, for it shows the primal cause to be God, and is a complete exposition of the Christ, the truth about God and man. It is therefore the answer to all scientific and religious search and so brings to its followers the blessings promised by both, for Christian Science is that pure religion —that is, religion undefiled by mere human hypotheses — which demonstrates the God who is Truth and Love and shows forth in a practical manner the perfectibility of man.

Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder

Christian Science is not an accumulation of human knowledge, but Mary Baker Eddy's spiritual discovery, her revelation; and revelation, according to Webster, is "that which is revealed by God to man." What is it that God, Truth, reveals to man? His own knowledge of Himself and of His creation, the origin and nature of all true being. This revelation could only come to the one whose deeply spiritual nature enabled her to perceive it. Such was the character of Mary Baker Eddy. She possessed, to an extraordinary degree, the qualities of both the inspired religionist and the genuine scientist: the faith, humility, and love which are the elements of true greatness, and the keen intellect, faultless logic, inspired purposefulness, and intrepidity of the research scientist.

In founding and organizing her Church, as well as the Massachusetts Metaphysical College, The Christian Science Publishing Society with all its publications, and providing for and protecting all the activities of the Christian Science movement through her Church Manual, Mrs. Eddy had no precedents to follow; she had to rely on God alone for guidance. It was her constant turning to God, with her innate spiritual capacity to hear His voice, that enabled her to take each step forward, avoid the pitfalls in her way, cope with opposition from established modes of thought, and teach her followers by her own example the great benefits of obedience to God's demands.

Years of prayer and searching of the Bible led Mrs. Eddy from that sacred moment of her first discovery through the gradual unfoldment of Christian Science to the point of its exact presentation by her in her marvelous work, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." Science and Health was not the result of intellectual outlining but of divine inspiration and unfoldment. This book and the King James Version of the Bible are the only textbooks of Christian Science and the only pastor of the Christian Science church. Whoever has understood rightly anything of Christian Science has learned it from these two books.

The Bible has a special place in the affections of Christian Scientists, for Science and Health is teaching them, and they are able to prove practically, that in the pages of the Bible pure Science and pure religion indeed coincide Especially important in her search for the Science of being were the teaching and works of that first Scientist, Christ Jesus, who, by virtue of his natural understanding of God, became the Founder of pure religion. Christian Science is the religion of Christ Jesus, for its theology includes healing the sick and the sinner in accord with his rules for moral and spiritual living, which constitute pure Christianity and which alone can lead to the scientific understanding of God as primal cause.

Universal Appeal of Christian Science

Christian Science, like mathematics, is available at all times to all people without regard to background, race, color, heredity, education, or occupation. No one is excluded. Because it is true, its appeal is universal.

One day a friend of mine, a Christian Science practitioner, answering his telephone, heard the troubled voice of a woman ask, "Do you give Christian Science treatment?" He assured her that he did and asked her, "What seems to be your problem?" She said, "Oh, it isn't I; it's my husband!" "Well," said my friend, "are you a Christian Scientist?" "No." "Is your husband?" "Oh, no," she said, "he is a physicist!" How splendid, thought my friend. He immediately felt sympathy and a sense of kinship with the man, for he realized that the aim of a physicist is to relieve the burden on humanity, and the purpose of the religionist is to bring salvation. The husband then came to the telephone and introduced himself by saying, "My wife told you, I believe, that I am a physicist." "Yes," the practitioner replied, "and I am so glad to talk with you, for you and I have the same ideal!" "What might that be?" he asked "Truth," said my friend, "for are you not searching for the ultimate explanation of reality, of the cause and laws of the universe?" "Yes," he replied thoughtfully, "that is our ultimate purpose. But see here," he continued, "I am a very sick man; I am suffering from a serious glandular infection, and I have been told that there is no help for me. My wife has assured me that Christian Science can heal me, but I don't see how I can turn to it when I am not a religious man; I have no faith in the existence of God" "Oh, yes, you have," my friend said, "you have faith in Truth; you have faith in the existence of a primal cause; that is God!" "Oh," he said, "oh!" My friends, beginning with that moment, the path of that physicist took a definite turn toward the true highway of Christian Science, for he became a student of this great Science and found his healing. Truth is irresistible!

Let me also tell you of a Christian Science practitioner who received a call from a man who said he had tried everything materia medica and psychiatry had to offer but without avail, and he was on the point of giving up his work, as he was no longer able to attend to it. He was suffering from a disease of the nervous system for which there was no known remedy. He said quite frankly that his education and work were along medical lines, and he wondered if Christian Science could help him. Unlike the physicist, this caller was a man of deep religious feeling with a genuine reverence toward God. He listened with close attention to the explanations of Christian Science, asked for absent treatment, and was subsequently nealed

Indeed, we see many signs around us of the illumination spiritual truth is bringing to human thought, leading it ever closer to the recognition that in their true sense, Science, religion, and medicine coincide in Christian Science.

Approach of Physics and Medicine Toward Pure Science

But now, just to be objective, let us remember that while physics has already come near to agreeing with the first sentence of "the scientific statement of being" in Science and Health (p. 468), "There is no life, truth, intelligence, nor substance in matter," it is still very far from recognizing the truth of the second sentence, "All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is All-in-all;" ending with the definition of matter as nothing by establishing God as the only substance. Even when the physical scientist has discovered, in his own way, the unreality of matter, he will not be able to heal through that knowledge until he recognizes and makes his own the absolute Science of the Bible declaration, "The Lord he is God; there is none else beside him" (Deut. 4:35), which is the statement of pure religion. Then he will have became a Christian Scientist.

And how far has medicine come toward the recognition of divine Mind and the spiritual nature of man? Just as far as this: that no doubt largely under the accumulated effect of spiritual healing in Christian Science, the medical search for causation has begun to reach out beyond the realm of bacteria and glands into the realm of the human mind. One of its branches, psychosomatics or mind-body medicine, starts from the premise that it is just as important to know what kind of patient has the disease as what kind of disease the patient has. But it would be wrong to say that psychosomatics is like Christian Science. Actually, it is not. Psychosomatics depends upon the human mind for the remedying of the mental cause and upon material medicine for the correction of the physical condition. It is therefore not spiritual but materially mental. The divinely mental method of Christian Science healing is summed up in Science and Health in these words (p. 145). "Scientific healing has this advantage over other methods,—that in it Truth (with a capital T, meaning God) controls error. From this fact arise its ethical as well as its physical effects. Indeed, its ethical and physical effects are indissolubly connected;" and it also teaches that both the human mind and the human body are myths. If they are, then you may well be asking, What, then, is real?

Reality

A purely physical approach to this question would identify reality with what is merely physical and materially tangible. A truly scientific approach must take into account the spiritual and moral, and begins with the observation that real permanency and spirituality are yoked together; that absolute permanency—which is reality —is predicated upon perfection, absolute faultlessness, absolute harmony. Mrs. Eddy has written: "All the real is eternal. Perfection underlies reality. Without perfection, nothing is wholly real" (Science and Health, p. 353).

Since matter is never perfect and certainly not eternal, there is no material reality. The forms of reality are God's infinite spiritual ideas expressing truthfulness, activity, and intelligence. Although these ideas are invisible to the material senses, they are absolutely real because they are, like their source, absolutely harmonious, and not subject to change, deterioration, or loss. Therefore God and His pure ideas constitute reality. All that is real is visible and tangible to spiritual sense, the sense of intelligence.

Now that we understand the nature of reality as spiritual, we should hold to the fact that it is good. There is no such thing as an "awful reality," or a "sad reality."

Unreality, the Realm of Mortal Mind

What then of sin, disease, sorrow, poverty, unhappiness? Ask yourself: Since these are opposites of God, can they be God-made? Can they exist in or of God? The answer of course is no. God could not create or include any element or condition which is opposed to His own nature. Therefore any manifestation of evil lacks the divine cause that could give it reality; it is illusion, without real presence, past or future, and is entirely powerless. The material senses alone testify of its existence. And what are the material senses? Can matter have sense at all? Sense or awareness is a function of consciousness which is in reality spiritual and cannot be found in matter. Matter cannot really be aware of anything, and material sense must therefore be an illusion and not a true sense; material sense is but another name for what Mrs. Eddy has called mortal mind, meaning by that the false, material, discordant sense, or counterfeit, of reality. This false sense includes all that is evil and material, all that makes up the dream of mortal existence, and it includes nothing else. Therefore the realm of mortal mind is the realm of the unreal. Mrs. Eddy has written, "The material senses originate and support all that is material, untrue, selfish, or debased" (Science and Health, p. 318). It is evident, then, that the support disease, pain, lack, and so forth, receive from the material senses, or mortal mind, is merely the fictitious support the lie receives from the liar: an insistence without intelligence, an argument without truth.

But, so the argument goes, disease, pain, seem so very real, so fear-inspiring. Well, is a thing real just because we seem to suffer from it? Hardly, for we often seem to suffer from misunderstandings, baseless fears, mere fearful anticipations, which we later find to be quite unwarranted.

When I was a very young student of Christian Science, I had an experience that taught me this point in a very simple way. To prove to a friend the healing power of Christian Science, I told him the story of the healing of a knee injury from which I had suffered for several years and from which I was healed during the first few weeks of my study. In order to impress him with the wonder of this healing, I related the injury in lively detail: how it had come about and how I had suffered from it day and night for over two years until my healing came in Christian Science. He was duly impressed with my story—and so was I, for almost within the hour the knee, which had been well and out of my thought for six or eight months, began to pain again so that I could not walk without a limp. Then I realized what had taken place: I had recalled the pain too vividly—too much as though it had been a real thing. But then I reminded myself that it was only mental in the first place and never really physical, an illusion which had been totally unreal all the time. This true view, appearing so clearly, was like an awakening, and I was able to handle the sense of pain as a false claim. In another hour or two it was gone, never to return, and I had learned a lesson. Doesn't this experience prove the teaching of Christian Science that disease is a thing of thought that is merely expressed on the body? Like disease, so sorrow, sin, false appetites, all fearsome things, are also but illusions or dreams of the physical sense of existence, totally unreal and therefore subject to destruction through spiritual understanding.

God

Because God is the only source of reality, knowing God is the basic need of every human being. Science and Health defines God as "incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love" (p 465). These terms are synonyms, that is, they have the same essential meaning, and are therefore seven terms for the one God, and they express His nature, His essence or true being, and His wholeness or infinite self-containment. Principle is derived from the Latin "principium," a term used in English literature for at least 275 years in the somewhat larger sense of beginning, fountainhead, that from which something is derived. Mrs. Eddy discerned God as the fountainhead of all reality and so was led to call Him divine Principle.

Because Mind, as a term for God, is by nature creating and giving, not withholding, with infinite power to sustain and protect its ideas, it follows that Mind is Love, whose eternal, unfailing functioning indicates supreme, omniactive intelligence as its primal and eternal quality. One of the mistakes in human thinking has been the notion that Mind and Love are different, that there can be real intelligence without love, or love without intelligence. The truth is that Mind to be intelligent must be loving, and Love to be good must be intelligent. Yet this synonymity of Mind and Love is clearly implied in the Bible where the wisdom of God is coupled with His mercy and kindness.

The term Life leads human thought to the recognition of God as the source of true existence, as the guarantee of man's eternal, perfect continuity as God's reflection. Finally, the term Soul for God illumines the liberating truth that Soul or Spirit is not a personal possession, an unknown something hidden in an unknown spot somewhere in the material body, in constant danger of loss through disease or contamination through sin, but that Soul or Spirit is God, the Life, the intelligence, and the substance or essence of man and the universe.

Christian Science teaches that each of these synonyms possesses the nature of all. Because of the limitations of the human sense of these terms, they at first appear to differ from each other in meaning and in function, and our aim should be to identify each with all the others completely, until the meaning of any one embodies for us the combined meaning of all seven. In order to achieve this, it is not necessary to identify certain fixed qualities with one of the synonyms, as for instance by speaking habitually—and perhaps a bit mechanically—of the beauty of Soul, the intelligence of Mind, the permanence of Truth, the goodness of Love, and so forth. All these expressions are true, but why not interchange these qualities and round out the understanding of Love, for instance, by thinking of the intelligence, power, and vitality of Love, the beauty and goodness of Truth, the infinite wholeness and health of Soul, and so forth, always bearing in mind that we are describing to ourselves the nature of the one infinite God. God is infinite, and we must go on and on in our understanding of Him and in the demonstration of His nature as our own.

Man

Now what, really, is man? Is he what he appears to be to the five senses?

Mrs. Eddy uses a number of terms to describe the real or perfect man, among them, God's image and likeness, His idea, representation, or expression, His reflection. The perfect child of a perfect Father; a spiritual idea in divine Mind showing forth the nature and character of God; the reflection of Love, living, loving, truthful—that is man! He is controlled and directed in the ways of God, for in reflection there is control—and yet perfect freedom! The corporeal mortal who may appear either sick or as a sinner, a backward, wayward, unloving, or unhappy being, is not the real, spiritual man but merely a false, human concept of him, a deflection of mortal mind. This is not the spiritual actuality of man.

Man is inseparable from God, as effect is inseparable from its cause. He coexists with God. Man is the reflection, the work or outcome of God. He does not become absorbed or lost in God any more than numbers are absorbed by the law of numbers; the law is expressed by the numbers, it establishes and maintains their harmonious relationships. Man's individuality is never lost; it is as eternal as the Mind which it reflects. The demonstration of our true nature as God's children is bound up with our understanding of our coexistence with God.

Christ Jesus

That is what Jesus came to teach. He demonstrated Christ, the spiritual idea of sonship. Because of his spiritual origin, the Master's understanding of the truth of being was natural to him and came to him directly from God. The effect of such understanding upon the human character and human experience is called salvation. Jesus knew his oneness with the Father —a oneness which is not sameness, but the unity of Mind and its idea —and this deep inborn awareness of his sonship gave him his divine nature, "the godliness which animated him," to use Mrs. Eddy's words (Science and Health, p. 26). We see the coincidence of pure Science and pure religion in his understanding of the Christ. This coincidence was expressed in his character, dedicated to the service of his Father for the salvation of the human family. Jesus taught mortals the possibility of their immediate salvation from every form of evil by destroying disease, sin, poverty, and even death before their very eyes and replacing them with the natural manifestations of harmony and Life. This was dominion over error. He received his understanding — his power — from the Father. Can we get it there? What did he say about that? "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also" (John 14:12). "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world" (Matt. 25:34). His words speak to us today from the sacred pages of the Bible, animating us to rise to our true stature of sonship with God until, purified of all impulses not in harmony with God, we are blessed with the spiritual power to heal and enjoy a happy, healthy, useful, and successful life

Christ Jesus was completely successful in his lifework because he had a complete understanding of God Each one of us, in reflecting the same Mind—the same understanding—as did Christ Jesus, may also be successful in the fulfilling of our individual purposes. The guarantee of man's success is in reality his coexistence with God.

Spiritual Healing

Expressing the reality of Life, Truth, and Love results in Christian healing. Our understanding of spiritual healing stems from Christ Jesus, and for its rediscovery we owe eternal gratitude to Mary Baker Eddy. Unlike the Christian Science textbook, which devotes an entire chapter of some eighty pages to the explanation of the method of spiritual healing, the Bible does not explicitly instruct us in the modus operandi of healing. Yet Jesus certainly taught his disciples to do healing work. How did he do this? Without himself using the phrase, he talked about "the mind of Christ," the Christ-consciousness that was his. He spoke also, and continually, about the manner of attaining this consciousness; and he continually exemplified the practical effect of this consciousness. Wherever he turned, there the sole reality of good became outwardly manifested. To help others to reach his spiritual discernment was his purpose, and he taught them how they could reach it. He was the Way-shower. The true way he summed up for us in the Sermon on the Mount, which our Leader calls the essence of Christian Science. In that Sermon is his own elucidation of the Mind of Christ, with its rules for everyday living. It represents in its own manner the nature of Christ Jesus. What that nature did for him, our own demonstration of true being as inculcated in the Sermon on the Mount has the power to do for us. Understanding can spiritualize our thinking to the point where the sense of evil will be as unreal to us as it was to him. Then the perfect man, the man whom Jesus consistently beheld, will be demonstrated for us as spontaneously as it always was for him.

Health is part of the salvation Jesus brought to mankind. Materia medica believes that matter causes its own disease and holds the power of its own functioning. It therefore regards matter as its antagonist, and its remedy as well. As a natural consequence materia medica is baffled by many conditions and diseases, and finds many which it considers well-nigh incurable. But Christian Science, recognizing man as spiritual, formed and maintained in accord with the law of God, does not accept any so-called law of incurability, and proves that neither age, human descent, environment, nor any material circumstance can place an individual beyond the reach of omnipresent Principle, divine, all-sustaining Love. Christian Science heals such cases.

Human thought is kept busy today with the consideration of the so-called deteriorative diseases. How can we believe in their reality and power when we understand that the substance of the man God made is spiritual and good, imperishable, never worn out by use, never losing its original vitality and self-sustaining power? Man is a whole entity, a complete idea, and no part of him can separate itself from that whole and start out on a lawless orbit of its own.

Christian Science heals organic and functional diseases. An individual who understands his spiritual nature and knows that God is his creator and animating divine Principle lives in the assurance of a harmoniously functioning bodily economy. He knows that the erroneous dream-sense about God's man, whether it seems to appear as organic or functional disease, yields to the understanding of the spiritual, invulnerable selfhood of man, whose builder and maker is God.

Heredity is not a law. Our inheritance, in the light of Christian Science, is really the continuous process of receiving, through reflection, perfect intelligence, health, strength, harmony of function, and beauty of thought, character, and individuality, which are the gifts of our Father-Mother God, in whose presence we forever live. On this truly scientific basis we are able to resist and to nullify all the lies that are the outgrowths of a totally godless and materialistic and therefore totally false sense of creation.

Healing of Fear

Inherent in every claim of evil is its attempted intimidation of the person, suggesting a sense of helplessness and confusion to him. Therefore Christian Science treatment always begins with the removal of fear. When we conquer fear we have conquered disease.

I know a Christian Scientist who proved this. He was stricken with the symptoms of an ugly disease which refused to yield to his own treatment. At first he tried to ignore his anxiety, but as the months went by and the symptoms became more pronounced, he became fairly possessed with fear. Then one day a sudden spirit of rebellion came over him against the unrighteous nature of fear. He was a good man, and he was tired of being afraid. He went on a long walk during which he faced up to fear, but first he faced God with a deep-down honesty within himself, as a man feels when he knows that he is in the presence of God He asked himself: Do I really believe in God? Do I know that He is infinite good and that I am His child, the very expression of His perfection? What am I afraid of? Of God? No. Is there someone else or something else? No. Is matter anything but an image in mortal mind? Can it have substance and power that I need to fear? No. What is fear? Is it a thought or an impulse from God? Is it a part of infinite Mind? No. Is it a part of me? No. It has no power to deprive me of my spiritual freedom, of my peace and happiness. I am always in the very presence of divine Love, the eternal Giver of unchanging health and perfect soundness, and I know it Fear is nothing, and I cannot have it and it can't hold on to me. It is a lie about the allness of God, an attempted infringement of my integrity as a child of God. God knows me, He loves me and keeps me as the very image of His own unopposed glory. I know that God is Love, and in that presence there is nothing to fear. I am not afraid because I know that God is my Father-Mother, He is my All, and I am fully conscious of my immortality and the divine perfection which underlies it.

When he arrived home, he felt uplifted and, for the first time in months, relieved and assured. Within twenty-four hours the condition began to abate, and within a few days it completely disappeared The healing has since proved permanent. Note this, that the man did not treat himself specifically against the belief of the disease, but against fear. When he succeeded in lifting the cloud of fear, he found himself healed.

Prayer and Christian Science Treatment

What was it this man did? He prayed. Out of his reverent sense for God he realized—made real for himself—the sole presence and goodness of God, and with this realization he effectively denied the validity, presence, and power of fear and disease. In whatever manner we do it, in one way or another, these are the elements that enter into scientific prayer, which is Christian Science treatment.

Treatment in Christian Science is not a looking down to matter, but a lifting of thought to God to behold the perfection and harmonious wholeness of man as God's reflection. The antidote for any specific argument of error is a spiritual understanding of truth whose power, acting on human belief, corrects it.

But to heal in Christian Science requires more than intellectual discernment; it demands a preparation of the heart, for goodness alone can attain the spiritual conviction of the nearness and dearness of divine Love. This conviction comes through one's own experience with the comforting, transforming, redeeming power of the Christ, active in human consciousness, uplifting and purifying it. Out of her own deep experience Mrs. Eddy wrote: "True prayer is not asking God for love; it is learning to love, and to include all mankind in one affection. Prayer is the utilization of the love wherewith He loves us. Prayer begets an awakened desire to be and do good" (No and Yes, p. 39). True prayer is in the heart, and not on the lips.

Is prayer necessarily but a short experience? How about a life of prayer? Think of Mrs. Eddy's life, of her unceasing, selfless work to bring the great blessings of her discovery to the entire human family!

"My prayer, some daily good to do
To Thine, for Thee;
An offering pure of Love, whereto
God leadeth me."

(Poems, p. 13.)

These words of hers describe her life of prayer.

Communing with God, then, is the only true prayer, and this is Christian Science treatment. It has the power of pure Science and the sanctity of pure religion. This coincidence of Science and religion is epitomized in "the scientific statement of being," for it is a statement of absolute Science on a religious basis. It reads: "There is no life, truth, intelligence, nor substance in matter. All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is All-in-all. Spirit is immortal Truth; matter is mortal error. Spirit is the real and eternal; matter is the unreal and temporal. Spirit is God, and man is His image and likeness. Therefore man is not material; he is spiritual" (Science and Health, p. 468).

Spiritually understood, this statement opens the thought of both scientist and religionist to the truth of spiritual being and so leads the mathematician, the physicist, the philosopher, the doctor, and the religionist to sit at the feet of Jesus, for Christian Science is the end of their search for the Science of being, the Science of good, which is also the religion of Truth, and which in its demonstration establishes in us the precious conviction of our sonship with God. No freedom is sweeter, no assurance greater, no joy purer than that; no health more dependable, no life more satisfying than that which appears for us in this way. This is the gift of our Father-Mother God; it is our birthright, waiting to be claimed. Christian Science makes it possible for us to lay hold of this birthright—today.

Christian Science Lesson-Sermon

How spiritual understanding of God brings health and harmony into human experience will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Soul" which will be read at Christian Services Sunday.

The Bible selections include this citation from Psalms:

"Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God" (42:11).

Among the passages from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy to be read will be the following:

We cannot deny that Life is self-sustained, and we should never deny the everlasting harmony of Soul, simply because, to the mortal senses, there is seeming discord. It is our ignorance of God, the divine Principle, which produces apparent discord, and the right understanding of Him restores harmony" (390:4-9).

The Responsive Reading includes the following verses from the Bible:

"God be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us; That thy way may be known upon earth, thy saving health among all nations" (Psalms 67:1,2).

St. Lucy's Women Plan Parties

Plans were discussed for more fund raising projects in the near future when St. Lucy's Women's club members met Thursday afternoon in the auditorium of the new St. Lucy's School.

An evening card party in conjunction with the other parish groups is planned for March as well as the regular afternoon parties, spokesmen said.

Cancer pads are still being made by Mrs. Antone Ferro who ships them in the name of the club to the hospital run by the Antoin Nuns for incurable cancer patients.

The business meeting was followed by a social hour during which refreshments were served by the hostesses at small tables decorated in the Valentine theme.

Mrs. Richard Bowen presided. Mrs. Elmer Jones, president, had been called East because of a death in the family.

'Valentine Dream'

Just a Valentine, Old and Worn
With crimson heart and edges torn.
Yet a treasure—dear to a faithful heart,
A treasure from which she will never part.

She sits and dreams of a by-gone day
E're her golden hair has turned to grey.
When the young lover, tall and fair
Sent the Valentine to her there.

With tear dimmed eyes she reads once more
The message of love the Valentine bore.
Young love was sweet to the woans heart
E're a cruel fate forced them apart.

Candy Sales To Help Campership Of Scouts

Thirty groups of Campbell district Camp Fire Girls will join other Santa Clara valley groups during February in a candy selling campaign, funds from which will supplement their 1954 camping fees. For every $25 sold, five dollars will be credited to the 1954 campership.

This gives girls an opportunity to earn a part of their way to Camp Wastahi in the redwoods of Big Basin.

CAMPBELL HI-LITES

by Bob Olson

The newspapers have recently given as much space to news of California's teacher shortage as they have articles about our unusual (and wonderful) "winter" weather. The California Teachers Association is sponsoring a recruitment program based on the idea that teachers already in the field are best qualified to encourage others to enter teaching. Only last Monday we received a request from a nearby university to answer the question, "Why Did You Choose Teaching As A Profession?" Perhaps our answer, written in the form of a brief essay, will be of interest to you as well. It carries the title "Seven Rewards"—none of which, it may be interesting to note, are even remotely related to financial remuneration.

Well, what are these rewards of teaching? (1) IT DEMANDS YOUTH. No profession does more to keep one young. To be a successful teacher you must speak the language of today even while teaching the truths of yesterday. You've got to be young in ideas and in spirit. And, if to act young is to feel young, perhaps teaching is a modern day fountain of youth!

(2) NO JOB IS MORE STIMULATING. Who else has the opportunity to rub elbows with a true cross-section of the community 175 days a year? What other job requires you to read and digest what you read, to think and to stimulate others to think for themselves? We've yet to meet a bored teacher (even though our student maintain that we're sometimes boring!) There is too much to do to give one a chance for introspection; there are too many others to serve, to give one time to think only about himself.

(3) TEACHING HAS SECURITY. In a day when the country is overflowing with lawyers with no place to practice law, how rewarding it is to be in demand—and with no relief in sight. The national birth rate, the growth of the West, the influx into California, all point to a future full of available teaching jobs in communities which will be thankful to have you. One thing we won't have a shortage of—is kids!

(4) Teaching brings out your individuality just as you try to bring it forth from your students. What other job can so give one an outlet for his creativity? The very nature of the position requires some knowledge of art, music, creative writing, and dramatic criticism. He must be able to encourage these traits in others, for a good teacher is a rare combination of erudition and down-to-earth practicality.

(5) THE VACATIONS ARE WONDERFUL. What other job encourages you to return to school yourself every summer? Who else has three months off to travel anywhere you've saved the money to go? If time is money, teachers need not always be considered paupers!

(6) YOU'LL NEVER BE REPLACED. They'll never invent a machine that can do the work of a teacher. No robot could stand the pace! This argument must certainly mean something to the filing clerk booted out by the IBM machine and the telephone girl who was just made "surplus" by a new dial system.

(7) And how can one describe the rewards of service to others? As the doctor ministers to the needs of the body, and the minister care for the needs of the soul, the teacher stimulates the mind. Teachers receive few compliments, but those few are priceless. We meet our rewards on the street long after they leave our classroom. For, like the stockbroker, we, too, deal in futures—futures which will shape a world long after we're forgotten.
